REMOTE TEACHING + LEARNING

Online / Virtual Education

Asynchronous - No live content. Participation can take place at the time of the students choosing. Typically release content a week at a time in order to pace the course for students. Often includes synchronous ‘office’ hours.

Synchronous - Participation at the time of the class is critical for success. These are classes that include significant interaction between students and faculty during the scheduled coursetime. Note, some content may be delivered asynchronously, but participation during some of the scheduled course time will be necessary.

Synchronous-Flexible - Class is delivered in real time but recorded. Some student interaction is included (e.g. Q&A, chat, short break out/discussions) that will make synchronous participation more engaging. Sessions are recorded and posted the day of the lecture.

A CBE FILM SERIES AND 1-CREDIT SEMINAR
exploring the relationship of film and the built environment

Film offers dramatic insights into how we imagine, construct and navigate our built environments. In the digital age, we often watch movies on our own. But collective experiences of film and the city can offer meaningful connections and even revolutions in thought and action. Fall quarter we will tackle the challenging questions of how cities (and films narratives about cities) reflect, deny or support environmental grieving and social grievance. We’ll ask whether cinema of the city can expose hidden environmental traumas and social injustices and catalyze shared catharsis and change?
